

Introduction

A FIRST music DJ is a part of the team/crew firstly, and must understand that the event and the games are The Show. The DJ's performance, however, can make or break the event. Hitting the cues, playing the right tunes, and being consistent, brings out a sense of professionalism that will endure the performance to everyone involved.

This is a sporting event, not a radio-station, or someone's iPod, or even a club. The focus is much different. The music must be upbeat and positive, may contain interactive elements, and during matches can create tension and suspense. But the bottom line is that at the end of the day "everybody has a good time", including the DJ. This playbook is written with the intent of taking some of the guesswork out of "what to play and when". It is written with much love for this genre that I call Sportsmusic...

The Goal

Create a playlist of music that will not only be inspiring, motivating, and uplifting but one that will also create a positive atmosphere that promotes gracious professionalism. We will accomplish this by creating files that are edited to give a "tighter" flow to the games. Create a pattern that is easy to follow with limited chance for downtime or "dead-air".

The Game

Every year the organizers create a different "game" for the robots. But the pattern and process is the same for the DJ. The "M.C." introduces each team in a 3-team alliance, which plays another 3-team alliance. The robots get in place for part 1 of the match: The Autonomous Period, where the robots must compete without any human intervention. This lasts 15 seconds. There goes another "Charge Horn" which begins part 2 of the match: The Challenge. This is when all the players get behind their remote controls and try to "score". This lasts 2 minutes. This year there is an added twist, as there will be a bridge that the robots will try and balance on near the end of the match.

The Playoff rounds are slightly different as they are all a best-of-3, and sometimes there are sweeps and other times it goes to sudden-death. The Championship round usually has a 6-minute turnaround between matches. There can be time-outs called during the playoffs, which last 6 minutes. There are some great moments here to really get the crowd "pumped up". Musically, I like to use good instrumentals especially upbeat karaoke versions of popular songs, for the Team Intros and have them underneath the MC.

During the actually matches, I like using songs with an upbeat tempo, usually a BPM (beats per minute) within the 120 -140 range, and as many instrumentals as possible as the MC will be covering the "play-by-play". Usually Techno, Industrial, House music works well, however as the games get "more important" I tend to sway towards epic Hollywood movie scores, as they have a zeal for building tension and suspense. Especially from "Spy" movies.

Music Genres

I have yet to come across a musical genre that does not work at a FIRST event. Everything from Classic Rock, Techno, and Pop all the way to Bluegrass, Swing, and Classical. You will more than likely get requests to play a lot of current music, which may be great suggestions, however there may be issues with language, content theme, etc.

For instance in the Top 100 Billboard Pop music for 2012, I would estimate that 75% of the songs would not be FIRST friendly. What is FIRST Friendly? I think, what is Not FIRST friendly is a shorter list. Songs that have profanity, even if it has been "beeped-out", are not to be used at all. Songs that deal with Bullying, Taunting, Violence, Sex and or Drug Use, are also a no-no.

Most Hip-Hop/Rap tunes have suspect lyrics, be careful when playing this musical genre, as there are terms that are used that may seem appropriate at the time, but may have be a very nasty meaning to it. To play it safe, if a song is a "Radio-Edit" or "CLEAN version", don't even listen to it, just don't play it.

Requests

Everybody wants to hear their favorite music, regardless of where they are it seems. Because we play so many different types of music, and so many different songs, guests think that it's an all-request radio station. They fail to realize that we are trying to create an atmosphere, which is okay, because they're just having a great time and feel that they want to contribute too. The problem that arises is that many DJ Booth locations are not in a fan-friendly accessible area, and safety issues become a major concern. Therefore, for the present time, WE WILL NOT BE TAKING ANY REQUESTS from the floor.

Playlists

The songs that are to be used have been sorted into their prospective playlists, ranging from Walk In music all the way through to the Awards. There are quite a few songs on these lists to choose from. They have been compiled and added to for years. There are a lot of songs to choose from so the DJ can put their "spin" on the event too. Keep in mind always, that we are an all-ages family sporting event, and some very popular songs may not be appropriate to be played at a FIRST event.

2013 THEME - Ultimate Ascent

The 2013 game is called "Ultimate Ascent", a take-off of Ultimate Frisbee. Though there are not a lot of songs geared towards Frisbees, there are a couple of other areas you may want to look at, such as "Flying", "Spinning", or even "Air" type of songs. I've lined up a song called Ultimate Frisbee by the band Parry Gripp, but a good start-up for this event would be a song by a band called Selda, and the song is "Are you Ready to Fly".

WALK IN MUSIC

Door open early morning, music feel should have an easy tempo and groove to uplifting as it gets closer to the opening ceremonies. Most teams, mentors, staff, etc. have probably had long night's prior, therefore blasting high-octane music at this point may not be highly advised. But playing very slow music isn't the right choice here either. The mix should be approximately 75 minutes long, though chances are that you will only go for about 45 minutes, then the AV team will probably play a video that will take you to the opening ceremonies.

LUNCH MUSIC

Similar to walk in music, it's a part of the day that would be considered "downtime". The morning of competitions have concluded, and everyone is in need of a break. Not only do the robots need to recharge their batteries but also us humans. The feel again is slightly subdued and very easy going. Usually the breaks last for approximately an hour, but it's good to have a little extra put aside.

OPENING CEREMONIES

This is when the fun begins. And this is when the music begins to “rev up” a notch. Intro music for the MC, and even some instrumental background music while the judges are being introduced works well here. Also, they usually run a video explaining the game, and some motivational messages from the organizers. The National Anthems are sung at this time, it is imperative to also have the your back-up Anthems on stand-by just in case there are any technical/artist difficulties.

TEAM INTRODUCTIONS

Usually during the first go through of the Qualifying matches, I like to use an instrumental piece of music while the MC is introducing each team, and I like to use 2 tracks per match, one for each side. All types of instrumentals work well here, even upbeat jazz. However it does have to be upbeat and motivational as each team is just getting into the starting gate for the first time. I don't usually play any song that would be team-specific here, but as the games go on, some teams have theme songs, and I've tried to play as many of them as possible in the past without giving any one team an unfair advantage. The amount of music here all depends on how many entrants there are in the competition at those particular regionals. If need be, you can re-use some of these tracks as they would be played back at a much lower volume, and are used to support the MC.

GAME ON - Qualifying.

During these matches, the MC is usually doing a play-by-play commentary over the sound system; therefore using songs with lyrics tend to get in a battle with the announcer. My experience has been to use instrumental music usually with a techno beat, and as it gets closer to the finals the music also gets more dramatic and suspenseful.

GAME ON - Finals

These songs should now be more dramatic and intense as it builds up to the finals. The best type of music to use here would be Industrial sounding movie soundtracks; many may have to be edited to fit the min. 2:15 song length. Ideally I've found it's best to be between 2:20-2:25 as there is usually a slight delay after the autonomous period.

AFTER MATCHES

After the match ends, there is an anticipatory period as everyone awaits the results. Last year, with Rebound Rumble, the wait time for the scores had been drastically reduced. It usually takes less the 20 seconds for the scores to be posted. With that in mind, instead of starting and stopping a new tune, I just play a DRUMROLL sound effect, however the JEOPARDY theme might work well here too, and once the score is revealed I throw in a "TaDa" sound effect.

INBETWEENERS

These are songs that are used to keep everyone's toes tapping but are not necessarily "interactive" "Crowd Prompt songs. However they have a place here as to change the pace a bit. They are mostly used in the mornings as the afternoons are geared towards getting everybody up.

CROWD RALLIES

These are usually the real upbeat, get the crowd into it songs. Including FIRST favorites like YMCA, Cotton-Eye Joe, Cha-Cha-Slide etc.. Strategically however, we don't want to have everyone burnt out by lunchtime. It's great to get them up after the first couple of matches of the day, as their excitement level would have carried over from the opening ceremonies. And as the day goes on it's nice to take them on a ride too. Similar to a roller coaster the first thrill is up high, and then it goes through a series of ups and downs. The goal is to keep everyone excited for the whole ride, but especially near the end of the day when it all counts.

AWARDS CEREMONIES

After the games have concluded for each day, there is an Awards Ceremony to recognize those teams that have been chosen to receive them. The MC usually describes the award, and then the merits of the team and then the team(s) name. Everyone cheers at the announcement, and begins to clap as the teams make their way down to the floor area. The music played here is usually the upbeat, energetic variety.

Special Moments/Mentor Dances

During FIRST events they usually have a mentors moment, where they all come out and do a dance of some sort. It's good to have a few of these on standby. Chances are that they are already in the crowd rally section, but just in case, it's good to be on alert here, and keep the Chicken Dance or the Macarena at the ready.

Conclusion

Pace yourself, it is a LONG day, and you will have to be on your toes the whole time. It's a non-stop show as far as the music is concerned. If you do it well, everyone will be singing the praises, if you don't it would be a let-down. Hopefully I've programmed the music so there they will be singing YOUR praises. It's a win-win for everybody!

PLAYLISTS

The music list provided is very large to accommodate some DJ flexibility. They are constantly being added to after each season. You don't need EVERY song on the list, but you should have most of them to get you through the weekend.

If you have any suggestions, or requests please feel free to send them to music@firstmusicdjs.com and I will listen to them and include them in future playlists, even music that would be "Regional Specific".

I Haven't included any "typical" organ/drum arena crowd prompts in these playlists, however you should have in your library a selection of favourite organ diddies and drum/clap-alongs. Though not imperative, it does add a nice "Sports" atmosphere to the games.

I've also added a FIRST Dance Favs Playlist. I've chosen them from the Crowd Rallies Playlist. These have become staples in a FIRST show, and I've even included a couple of songs that have gone "VIRAL" and I guarantee you that you'll be asked for them, especially "Gangnam Style" and the "Harlem Shake".

There is also a DO NOT PLAY playlist that I've generated from songs that are on the Billboard Pop Charts. Due to the language, and or content, they should not be played at all.
